

TABLE OF CONTENTS

RENAISSANCE LITERATURE:

Attila Kiss (József Attila University): The Body Semiotic in the Theater	[13]
Rui Carvalho Homem (University of Porto): Fleshly Voyages: Ben Jonson, Space and the Body	[25]
Berta Cano Echevarría and M ^a Eugenia Perojo Arronte (University of Valladolid): 'A Medicine of Cheries': The Language of Profit in Sidney's Defence of Poesie	[43]
Jorge Casanova García (University of Huelva): Crashaw and the Emblem Revisited	[49]
Elena Domínguez Romero (University of Huelva): 'By cruell love now slaine': Virgilian Structures and Themes in Englands Helicon	[59]
Jorge Figueroa Dorrego (University of Vigo): Wroth and Weamys: Two Different Approaches to Pastoral Romance, Love, and Gender	[67]
Ana Sáez Hidalgo (University of Valladolid): The Spanish Connection of The Anatomy of Melancholy	[75]
Cinta Zunino Garrido (University of Huelva): Mycetes' Rhetorical Failure in Christopher Marlowe's Tamburlaine The Great	[91]

SHAKESPEARE STUDIES:

Patricia Parker (Stanford University): What's in a Name: and More	[101]
M ^a José Álvarez Faedo (University of Oviedo): Orson Welles's Gothic Cinematic Approach to Shakespeare's Macbeth	[151]
Alfonso Barneto Alanís (University of Huelva): 'Momentary grace': The Platonic Undertones of Hastings' Prophecy in Richard III	[161]
Janet Dawson (University of Seville): Order and Disorder in Two Versions of Troilus and Cressida : The Case of Ulysses	[169]
Miguel Ángel González Campos (University of Málaga): 'Had-I/ Not four or five women once that tended me?': Paul Mazursky's version of Shakespeare's Tempest	[179]
Zenón Luis Martínez (University of Huelva): True Looking-glasses: Narcissism and Motherhood in Shakespeare's Sonnets	[185]
Maria Salomé Machado (University of Lisbon): Defying Convention: The Verbalization of Eroticism in W. Shakespeare's Othello and J. Donne's Elegie XIX	[195]

HISTORICAL LINGUISTICS:

- María F. García-Bermejo Giner (University of Salamanca):
The Language in Mary Rowlandson's 1682 Captivity Narrative [203]

RESTORATION LITERATURE:

- Manuel J. Gómez Lara (University of Seville):
Trotting to the Waters: Spas as Cultural Landscapes in Restoration Literature [219]
- Victoria Arreciado Charlo (University of Seville):
The Decline of the Monarch's Prerogative: Banks and his Imitators [241]
- María José Calero del Valle (University of Huelva):
The Ravished Heroine in Restoration Tragedy: Ibrahim the Thirteenth
Emperor of the Turks and The Conquest of Spain [247]
- Beatriz Domínguez García (University of Huelva):
The Search for Female Power in Catharine Trotter's Agnes de Castro [255]
- Adelaide Meira Serras (University of Lisbon):
Towards a Female Identity [263]
- Auxiliadora Pérez Vides (University of Huelva):
Gender, Disguise and the Politics of Marriage in Ariadne's
She Ventures and He Wins [271]
- Rafael Vélez Núñez (University of Cádiz):
Transformations of Courtly Entertainments: Restoration Odes [277]
- Sonia Villegas López (University of Huelva):
Catharine Trotter's Agnes de Castro, or the Revision of Female Virtue [285]

RENAISSANCE AND RESTORATION CULTURAL STUDIES:

- Leticia Álvarez Recio (University of Seville):
An Approach to English Anti-Catholicism through the Analysis of Some 17th Century Anti-Jesuitical Pamphlets [293]
- Robert Bromber (University of California):
Abandonados and Afortunados: The Prosecution of Corsarios by the Mexican Inquisition [301]
- M^a José Carrillo Linares (University of Huelva):
The Days of the Moon: Science, Magic or Poetry? [313]
- Joan Curbet (Autònoma University of Barcelona):
Dogma and the Limits of Heteroglossia in Sir Thomas More's Dialogue
Concerning Heresies (1528) [319]
- Andrew Monnickendam (Autònoma University of Barcelona):
The Un-Merry Laws: Marriage, Widows and Adultery in Two 1656 Tracts [331]
- Keith Whitlock (Open University, U.K.):
Folklore: Opiate of the People or the Social Cement of Middle England? [343]