

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION	9
I GENDER AND CINEMA	17
Chapter 1: Men's Studies and the Revision of Masculinity in the US	19
1.1 Men's movements and Men's Studies	24
1.2 The history of masculinity	28
1.3 Revised images of masculinity in contemporary discourses	39
Chapter 2: Images of Men in Hollywood Cinema	47
2.1 Film theories on masculinity	48
2.2 Masculinity in Hollywood cinema	56
2.2.1 The traditional hero	56
2.2.2 Heroes on screen	60
Chapter 3: Gender and Genre in Contemporary US Science-Fiction	77
3.1 Gender, postmodernism and science-fiction	77
3.2 Contemporary science-fiction heroes	85
3.2.1 The 80s and mechanical cyborgs	90
3.2.2 The 90s and virtual heroes	93

II FILM FOCUS: LYNCH'S DUNE (1984) AND THE WACHOWSKYS' THE MATRIX (1999)	103
Chapter 4: Dune : A Site for Ambivalent Masculinities .	106
4.1 US social reflections in Dune	109
4.2 Gender relations in Dune	123
4.2.1 Caladan: a hierarchy of male power.....	125
4.2.2 Giedi Prime: the home of abhorrent masculinity	129
4.2.3 The Empire and the insistence on male superiority	133
4.2.4 Arrakis or Dune: a natural place for gender relations	136
4.3 The hero: Paul	139
4.3.1 Paul: a hero beyond muscles	140
4.3.2 Paul and his quest.....	145
Chapter 5: The Matrix : Masculinities Beyond 'The Real' .	152
5.1 Postmodernism, technology and gender in The Matrix	157
5.1.1 The Matrix: a virtual hallucination	159
5.1.2 The Desert of the Real: the ultimate representation of postmodernism	165
5.1.3 Intertextuality in The Matrix	170
5.2 Masculinity beyond borders: Neo	178
5.2.1 Gender transgressions in The Matrix	179
5.2.2 The hero: Neo	184
III CONCLUSIONS	193
IV WORKS CITED	201